

COFFEE TABLE 1053

TO MIX DIFFERENT MATERIALS was typical for Josef Frank's design. A tabletop in Italian porphyry meets a base in solid lacquered brass in this coffee table. The characteristic legs can be found in several of Josef Frank's designs. The table has been depicted in photographs from different interiors, for instance in Estrid Ericson's living room at Strandvägen 5 in front of a Liljevalch sofa.

COFFEE TABLE 1053

MATERIAL Tabletop in Italian porphyry and base in solid lacquered brass.

CARE INSTRUCTIONS When cleaning stone surfaces such as marble, use a soft cloth dampened with water and green soap. Dry with a soft cloth.

Remember that acids such as red wine and lemon can stain the stone. This applies to both polished and matt marble. If acid is spilled, be sure to wipe the surface directly.

The legs of the table are lacquered and should never be polished. Avoid contact with water as it can stain.
